

ISOLATION to CONNECTION

Short term support and connection to ongoing services

Through this new UJA-Federation New York funded program for isolated seniors, a caring Mid-Island Y JCC social worker will establish rapport, assess needs, make facilitated referrals, and follow up to confirm service provision, providing a warm connection to ongoing services tailored to each senior's needs.

We can link seniors to an array of community-based services including:

- Home delivered meals
- Paratransit transportation (in most areas)
- Vaccine appointments
- Ongoing case management programs
- Home-based medical services
- Telephone or in-person counseling
- Home care
- Virtual programming
- Nassau County Police Department Senior Engagement Program

Accessing services is less overwhelming, when there is a caring professional providing support at each step of the way while the connection to ongoing services is made.
